ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is my pleasure to extend sincere gratitude and acknowledge the help of people as well as institutions that I received while completion of this graduate study. Deepest thanks and profound appreciation go to Dr. Aree Wiboonpongse, my academic advisor as well as chairman of the thesis committee for her immeasurable guidance, suggestions and delightful behavior. I am really indebted for her dedication throughout the development of this thesis. I would like to express my deep gratitude and thanks to Dr. Songsak Sriboonchita, committee member of my thesis for his worthy lecture in quantitative application. Grateful thanks are also extended to other members of the committee, Prof. (Archan) Phrek Gypmantasiri and Dr. Benchapun Shinawatra for their invaluable comments and suggestions. I wish to express my sincere thanks to all Professors, and Staff of Agricultural System Program for their enormous help and cooperation in respective field during my study period.

Special thanks to Winrock International Institute for awarding me the scholarship throughout the study period and research. Particularly I am thankful to Dr. Gill, Dr. Thapa, Mrs. Bautista, Ms. Vicky Sesbatina and Mr. M.B. Thapa for keeping in touch in academic business.

I would like to extend special gratitude and respect to Dr. U.Singh former Director General of Department of Livestock Services for his encouragement, guidance and suggestions. In this regard, sincere thanks are also due to Dr. Tulsi (former Executive Director of APROSC), Mr. H.J. Dahl (Team Leader of PLBP/GTZ), Dr. P.M.S Pradhan, Mr. S.L. Pradhan (Regional Director), Dr. Ram Chettri (Australian Forestry), Dr. S.M. Amatya (Forestry Research Project), P. Robinson (Swiss Dev. Project), and K.K Pandey for their precious suggestions and materials help while conducting this research.

It is my obligation to express my gratefulness to the villagers of the research sites in providing the valuable information that enabled me to complete the study. In this regard, I am very much thankful to Agricultural officers, Mr. B.M. Upadhaya,

Mrs. Uma Karki, Mr. H.R. K.C., and Mr K.D. Jha for their kind help in data collection. I am really indebted to my colleague Mr. H.R. Joshi and Mr. L.B. Karki for their genuine help and inspiration for this study. My hearty thanks and appreciation go to other friends, Dilli Raj, Dewan chand and Gopal Bista for their kindness to my family affairs.

I am very much delighted to pay thanks for the warm and cordial friendship provided by all Ags Students. Their kind co-operation in study as well as in other activities are unforgettable. Especially, worthy to mention the names are Khun Dae, Yuan, Suphorn, Somchit, Tospol, Pisut, Panomsak, Tawilkal, Pilai, Dung, Jarus and Kang. I wish my deep appreciation to Nepalese friends, Naba, Bijaya, Pant, Gauchan, Chabbi, S. Thapa, R. Thapa, Vim, and Rojee for their academic help as well as creating homely environment in Chiangmai.

Finally, it is my pleasure to dedicate this manuscript in the name of my late father (Mr. Guna Bikram Adhikary) whose encouragement ably led me to reach up to this level. Equally I appreciate my mother (Nani) for her accompany during the stay in Chiangmai. Her patience, affection, support and understanding help me a great deal for completion. And I am highly grateful to my brother Jeevan and sister Jyoti for their sacrifices and inspiration throughout my study in Chiangmai, Thailand. With all above these, I deeply pay my respect to Lord Pasupati Nath for blessing on me to accomplish the study successfully.
