ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This thesis would not complete without the kindness of the chairperson of advisory committee, Assoc. Prof. Dr. Avorn Opatpatanakit including all committees, Prof. Dr. Pongsak Angkasith and Assoc. Prof. Wallratat Intaruccomporn those who gave valuable correction to my thesis. And thanks for Assoc. Prof. Dr. Suraphol Sreshthaputra, Prof. Dr. James P. Key and Assoc. Prof. Dr. Narinchai Patanapongsa.

Many thanks to the Royal Project Foundation for the financial support especially for the field trip to U.S.A.

My appreciation also goes to all lecturers in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Agricultural Extension. They are my knowledge sources. Unforgettable, I wish to thanks all staff at the Agriculture Faculty, Department of Agricultural Economics and Agricultural Extension Chiang Mai University for their grateful corporation and kind assistance.

Warmest thanks for information supporting from the Royal Project staff and farmers at the Royal Project Foundation area, Chiang Mai Province, all those who helped me. Without them, I could not completed this thesis.

I would like to acknowledge my friend especially to all Doctoral Degree Students at the Department of Agricultural Economics and Agricultural Extension those who have inspired and contributed to me.

Finally, I would love to express my special thanks to my family who educate, inspire, contribute, and treat whole things to my life. For those names not listed here, I would love to say thank you for pushing me to my goal.
