Acknowledgements

This study has not been able to carry out without the financial, administrative and moral support from Heinrich Boell Foundation. Special thanks should go to all the professors and lecturers who provided precious lectures throughout the whole study in Faculty of Economics, Chiang Mai University, Thailand. Especially, the author could not express enough thanks to the un-valuable gratitude of Lect. Dr. Daniel Schoch, Prof. Dr. Peter H. Calkins and Dr. Ronald D. Renard for their guidance and helpful suggestions for this research.

The author is indebted to many Pa Oh people (their name remains anonymous for their security) those who share their experience and provide information in all aspects. Also would like to thank to Pa Oh Literature and Culture Organization and ethnic media group such as Shan Land Organization, Pa Oh Youth Organization, Maung Khun N'we (Inlay), the national literature award author of Cheroot and Pa Oh People and many Pa Oh bloggers for their valuable information.

I also would like to thank to Ajarn Petsunee and Ajarn Wanchai from Faculty of Nursing, Chiang Mai University for allowing me to sit in their statistics class on SPSS database software. And last but not least, my sincere acknowledgement to all administrative staffs from Faculty of Economics for their supports.
