Acknowledgements

It is a pleasure to thank those who made this thesis possible.

First and foremost, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to Prof. Dr. Peter H. Calkins, my thesis advisor who had provided kind guidance throughout my thesis-writing period. I would like to thank him for his inspiration, enthusiasm, encouragement, great advices and ideas, as well as efforts to explain things clearly and simply. I could not have a better advisor for my Master study.

I would like to thank Lect. Dr. Prapatchon Jariyapan, my thesis co-advisor who had given me comments, suggestions and hard questions, Mrs. Wilawan Tanratanakul who had provided insightful suggestions on policy implications, and Lect. Dr. Pathairat Pastpipatkul who had guided me through econometric analyses.

My sincere thanks also go to the staffs at the Faculty of Economics especially to Mr. Tawarot Thongkam who had provides supports during my study and my thesis completion.

I am indebted to my fellow classmates for their emotional support, entertainment and caring.

Last but not least, I am heartily thankful to my family. Their love, encouragement and support have made this thesis possible.
