ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First of all, I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to the Fogarty AIDS International Training and Research Program, the Johns Hopkins University, for giving me a 2-year scholarship to undertake this Master degree of Health Sciences (International Program) at Chiang Mai University.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to Professor Thira Sirisanthana, the Director of the Research Institute for Health Sciences, my major advisor, for his kindness, encouragement, valuable suggestions, and supports in this study.

I am also very grateful to Dr. Sodsai Tovanabutra, my co-advisor. I wish to express my deep gratitude for her excellent advice, valuable suggestions for laboratory techniques, knowledge and guidance.

I am grateful to Dr. Chris Beyrer, my co-advisor, for his valuable advice, guidance, and providing the opportunity for me to be trained at the Henry M. Jackson Foundation, Rockville, MD, USA.

My very special thanks to Dr. Francine E. McCutchan, Dr. Gustavo Kijak, Mr. Eric Sanders-Buell and staff members at the Henry M. Jackson Foundation, Rockville, MD, USA for scientific advices, suggestions and their supports in providing instruments, reagents, and places for study in the United States.

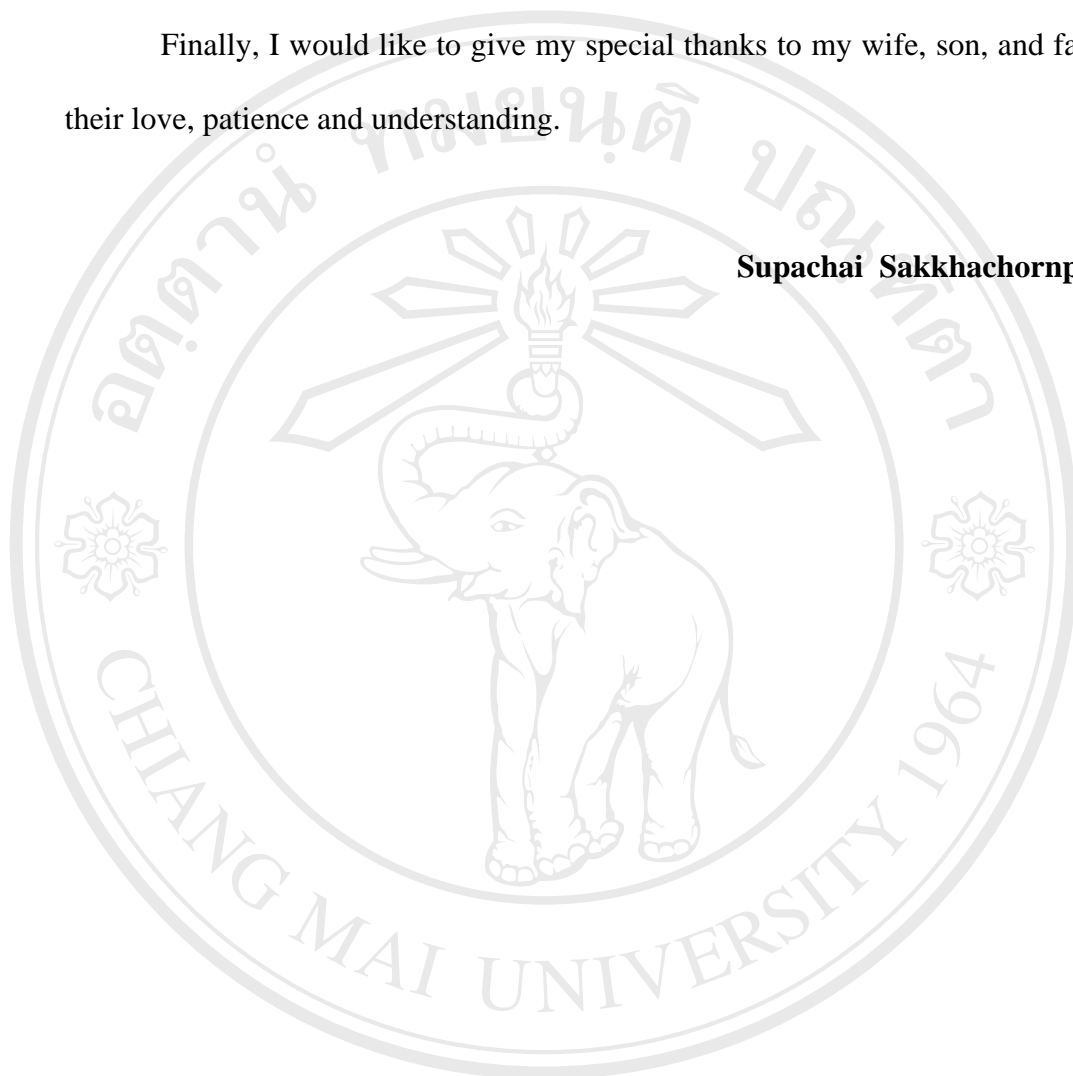

I would like to thank Dr. Jeerang Wongtrakul, my co-advisor, for her valuable advices in conducting this study.

I sincerely thank Dr. Namtip Srirak, Dr. Myat Htoo Razak, Miss Tasanai Vongchak, Mr. Kittipong Rungruengthanakit, Mr. Rassamee Keawvichit, Mrs.

Kanlaya Wongworapat, Mr. Peter Lange, and the OUR team of the Research Institute for Health Sciences for their help throughout this thesis.

Finally, I would like to give my special thanks to my wife, son, and family for their love, patience and understanding.
